

8 WHITE SOX PLAYERS INDICTED

COMISKEY SUSPENDS 7 PLAYERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Seven members of the Chicago White Sox and one former player were indicted today by a Cook county grand jury charged with conspiracy to commit an illegal act in connection with last year's world's series, which they have been accused of "selling" to a coterie of gamblers. The men indicted were: Eddie Cicotte, Claude Williams, Chick Gandil, Happy Felsch, Charles Risberg, Joe Jackson, Fred McMullen, Buck Weaver.

The seven were immediately suspended by Charles A. Comiskey, president of the club, who apparently thereby threw away all chances of winning the American league pennant this year. The Sox are only a half game behind the league leading Indians today.

The "Old Roman" who has spent a lifetime building up his club, notified the accused in the notice of suspension that if they were found guilty he would drive them out of baseball for rest of their lives, if possible.

Alfred S. Austrian, attorney for the club, sent the following telegram to Kiberg, McMullen, Jackson, Felsch, Weaver, Williams and Cicotte:

"You and each of you are hereby notified of your indefinite suspension as a member of the Chicago American League Baseball Club.

"Your suspension is brought about by information which has just come to me directly involving you and each of you in the base ball scandal, now being investigated by the present grand jury of Cook county of the world's series of 1919.

"If you are innocent of wrong doing you and each of you will be reinstated. If you are guilty you will be retired from organized baseball for the rest of your lives, if I can accomplish it. Until there is a finality in this investigation it is due to the public that I take this action even though it costs Chicago the pennant.

"(Signed)

"CHARLES A. COMISKEY."

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE RACE

ST. LOUIS, MO., September 28.—Chicago has won one more game than Cleveland, but has suffered two more defeats. The Indians by winning five of the six games remaining on their schedule, will clinch the pennant, even though Chicago win the remaining three games. Should Cleveland win four of its remaining games and Chicago win all, the clubs would be tied.

(Chicago being idle today, a defeat for Cleveland would not detract from the leadership. The standing in this case would be:

(Cleveland—91; 35; 6,905.
Chicago—95; 36; 6,291.

White House Takes Hand In Presidential Campaign

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 28.—The first public document in the present presidential campaign to be issued at the White House was made public today. It dealt with the League of Nations and was in the form of a letter to E. M. Swartz, of Los Angeles, written by Secretary Tumulty at President Wilson's direction.

The White House letter was in reply to one to the president in which Mr. Swartz had declared the forces supporting the Republican ticket were contending that if article ten of the league covenant was ratified the United States would be bound to support England in holding Ireland under subjection.

The letter to Mr. Swartz follows:

"In reply to your letter of the 20th of September, I beg to say that the identical questions contained in your letter, with reference to article ten, and the right of self determination, found in the covenant of the League of Nations were placed before the president while he was on his western trip last year and fully answered by him. The president directs me to call your attention to the following questions and answers given by him to the press at that time which I think satisfactorily answer your inquiries. The questions and answers are as follows:

"Q. Under the covenant does the nation obligate itself to assist any member of the league in putting down a rebellion of its subjects or conquered peoples?

"A. It does not.

"Q. Under the covenant can this nation independently recognize a government whose peoples seek to achieve or have achieved their independence from a member of the league?

"A. The independent action of the government of the United States in a matter of this kind is in no way limited or affected by the covenant of the League of Nations.

"Q. Under the covenant are those subject nations or peoples only that are mentioned in the peace treaty entitled to the right of self determination or does the league possess the right to accord a similar privilege to other subject nations or peoples?

"A. It was not possible for the peace conference to act with regard to the self determination of any territories except those which had belonged to the defeated empires, but in the covenant of the League of Nations it has set up for the first time in article eleven a forum to which all claims of self determination which are likely to disturb the peace of the world or the good understanding between nations and peoples on which the peace of the world depends can be brought.

"Q. Why was the case of Ireland not heard at the peace conference? And what is your opinion on the subject of self determination of Ireland?

"A. The case of Ireland was not heard at the peace conference because the peace conference had no jurisdiction over any question of that sort which did not affect territories which belonged to the defeated empires. My position on the subject of self determination for Ireland is expressed in article eleven of the covenant in which I may say, I was particularly interested, because it seemed to me necessary for the peace and freedom of the world that a forum should be created to which all peoples could bring any matter which was likely to affect the peace and freedom of the world."

Hen Hatched Alligator Egg Then Fled In Haste From Nest

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Sept. 28.—A hen owned by Dr. W. E. Willis of this city is suffering from something akin to nervous prostration, according to the physician. Dr. Willis found a nest filled with alligator eggs while on a hunting expedition recently. He brought six of the eggs home with him. A sedan hen in the doctors' barnyard was determined to set and although the sun would have hatched the alligator eggs, Dr. Willis decided to humor the fowl and put the eggs under her. Hiddy waited for but one egg to hatch, according to the doctor and then left the nest in a dead run, cackling wildly.

CHANGE YOUR PLANS, FANS! FIRST GAME IN BROOKLYN

CHICAGO, September 28.—The national commission today reversed its decision yesterday and decided to open the world series at Brooklyn on October 3, playing three games there, then the change was made at the request of Jim Thum, president of the Cleveland club, who asked more time to prepare the Cleveland grounds in the event his team should win the American League pennant.

The teams will travel on October 3 and open in the American League city winning the pennant, either Cleveland or Chicago on October 9 for a four game series.

Brooklyn gets the eighth game on October 14, and will also get the ninth game, if one is necessary, as the National League yesterday won the toss for the final game. If a ninth game is played, however, it will be on October 15 instead of October 16, as the day's intermission for traveling has been eliminated.

CICOTTE DENIES HE WAS INVOLVED IN PLOT TO THROW THE SERIES

CHICAGO, September 28.—Eddie Cicotte, White Sox pitcher, who, according to a story told in Philadelphia last night by Billy Maharg, former boxer, was involved in a $100,000 plot to lose the world's series last year, denied today that he had ever met Maharg.

Cicotte, according to Maharg's story, met him and Billy Burns, former ball player, in the latter's room in a New York hotel and offered to "throw" the series if $100,000 were paid him by Burns.

"I would not know Maharg if I saw him," Cicotte said today. "I do not recall ever having met him. He might have been introduced to me the same as any other fan, but I do not remember him."

Billy Burns called at the Ansonia Hotel in New York. He did not talk to me alone but conversed with other members of the team. While I was with him he was making arrangements for a hunting trip with Bill James. The talk of the world series being fixed is all a joke. I know nothing of it."

Mrs. Henrietta Kelly, a widow, in whose home several of the White Sox players have roomed at various times, and who has been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury this afternoon, was questioned this morning by Otto E. Lightfoot, assistant state's attorney. Later Assistant State's Attorney Hepple, in charge of the investigation, said her story was "important."

Mr. Lightfoot said "if I can gather together the angles on which I am

Not That They Love Harding More Or Governor Cox Even Less--Idaho Wants Change

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright By Times Pub. Co.)
IDAHO, Sept. 27.—Not that they love Harding more, or Cox even less, but because they want a change. That is the way people who know Idaho's political habits analyze the drift toward the Republican national ticket this year. Dissatisfaction and unrest are due to a variety of reasons, some of which have nothing to do with the Wilson cabinet, but just the same the Democratic party will suffer because a Democratic administration happened to be in power when these ills and irritations came upon the land.

"They will be voting one man and one party out," said a Republican editor privately. "And they haven't any particular promise that the next administration will be any better. But they want to turn back. We will have to educate them up afterwards to understand that they have chosen right, and we hope that events will justify their votes."

The foregoing opinion indicates that Senator Harding is by no means popular in Idaho.

The press of the state is predominantly Republican. Out of about 140 publications only twenty are Democratic and four or five independent. The bulk of the newspapers are against the league and behind Senator Borah.

Nevertheless Senator Nugent is confident that when the Democrats get their organization perfected they will be able to swing the state for Cox. Nugent himself will run for ahead of the presidential ticket and unless there is a landslide for Harding often Republicans concede that he has a good chance to win the Senatorial race again.

He defeated two years ago, for the short term, the same man who is running for the state again.

Negroes May Replace Asiatics In California

LOS ANGELES, CAL., September 28.—The possibility of negroes taking the place of Asiatics as farm workers in California, was discussed today at the national convention of the Industrial and Commercial Council of People of African Descent.

W. H. Sanders, a Los Angeles delegate, said he was in direct touch with at least 5,000 negroes who will come to California to take up truck gardening in case persons of Oriental race are barred from further colonization in this state. He said the workers would be headed by graduates of the agricultural department of Tuskegee Institute.

Capital was subscribed for a cooperative company to market products of negro farmers through grocery stores to be established in negro communities.

An "address to the American people" was issued in which the convention declared later to be the greatest asset of people of African descent and that "brain, brawn, a few acres, a mill wheel and a smoke stack, with unimpaired faith in God, Almighty, will make any race of people happy and comfortable."

It was further stated that "we affirm our faith in the people of African descent and unalterably declare ourselves in the field of competition with our Caucasian neighbors for the restoration of rights."

BIG GAIN IN TAX DUPLICATE

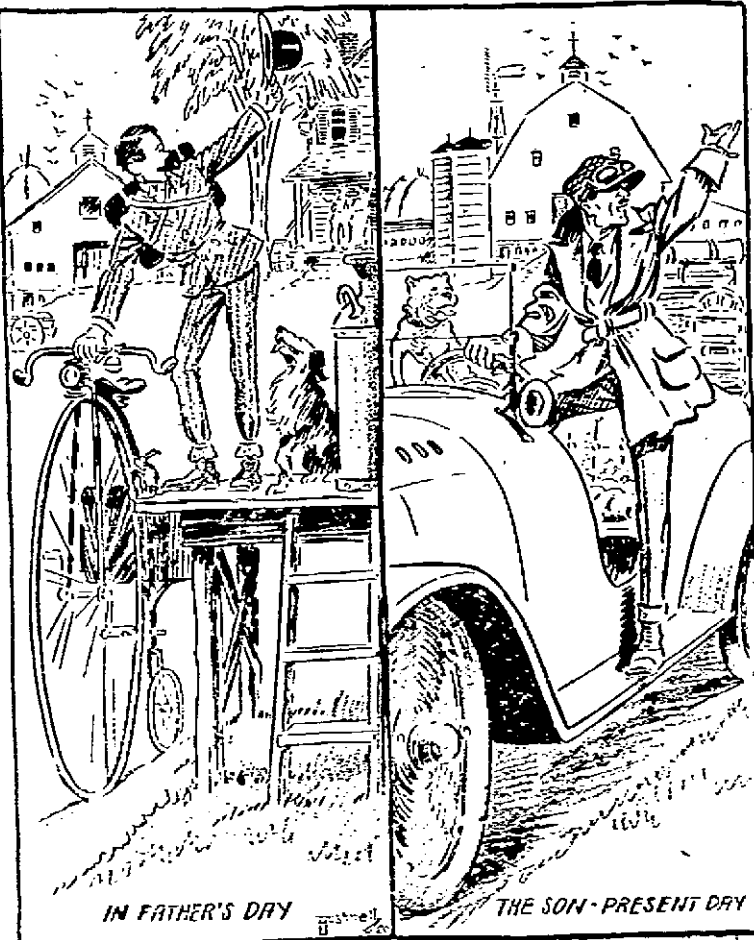

The tax duplicate for Scioto county for 1920 amounts to a grand total of $83,674,970, according to an amendment made Tuesday by Auditor Roy C. Cullen. This is an increase of approximately $3,500,000 over the duplicate of 1919 and the new duplicate is divided as follows: Real estate, $49,116,110; personal property, $20,981,280; public utilities, $13,577,580.

The valuations as fixed by the auditor and approved by the Board of Revision was Monday officially approved by the Ohio

Tax Commission. Auditor Cullen was advised in a message received from Columbus Tuesday. This will allow the work of extending the taxes and making up the duplicate in anticipation of the December collection, the auditor stated.

Cocoon Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisided coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rises out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisided coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

New Pastor Well Received

OAK HILL, Sept. 25.—Rev. J. E. Hubert, former pastor at Wesley Hall Mission, Portsmouth, occupied the pulpit at the M. E. church Sunday both morning and evening, and made a favorable impression. His sermon in the evening was from the text, "A false balance is an abomination to the Lord; but God is pleased with a just balance." The subject was well handled, showing Rev. Hubert to be an able man in his chosen profession. Miss Lloyd of Pittsburg, Pa., sang a beautiful solo at the evening service.

Nichols sued for $125.00 damages he claimed to have sustained to his automobile in a collision with Ewing's Mercer machine at Fifth and Brown streets on Nov. 28, 1919, and the jury awarded him $37.50. The plaintiff alleged that negligence and reckless driving of the defendant's auto caused the accident while Ewing set up the defense that Nichols was guilty of contributory negligence. Attorney R. P. Kibbe for plaintiff and Attorney Blair and Blair for Ewing.

Mrs. Carter Gets Divorce

They were married Sept. 8, 1901, and the plaintiff told the court Carter abandoned her more than three years ago. She was represented by Attorney George W. Sheppard.

Mrs. Culver Asks Divorce
A divorce and alimony with restoration to her former name of Cohn is sought by Helen Culver in an action instituted in Common Pleas court Tuesday against Henry Culver, steel worker employed at the Whitaker Glass plant at New Boston. She says they were married August 16, 1912, and then through Attorney T. C. Beatty she complains of cruelty, alleging that all during their married life Culver beat and ill-treated her and that he defies and mistreats her if she speaks to or associates with her own brother, she claims. Furthermore she declares she is unable to protect herself against his brutal assaults and says she has been compelled to abandon her home at 1705 Oakland avenue. She secured a temporary injunction tying up the defendant's wages and restraining him from molesting her.

Mrs. Williams Seeks Divorce
Alleging willful absence and neglect Mary Williams seeks a divorce from James Williams in a suit filed in Common Pleas court Tuesday through Attorney George W. Sheppard. They were married Oct. 9, 1911, and the plaintiff also asks to be restored to her former name as Gilmore. The defendant when last heard from was at New Orleans, La.

Foreclosure On Auto
Foreclosure of a chattel mortgage given to secure deferred payments on an automobile is sought in an action filed in common pleas court Tuesday by George Appel against J. A. Hirsch. The plaintiff's claim amounts to $370, and he asks that the automobile, which is of the Inter-state Chumby make, be sold and the proceeds applied to payment of the notes. The plaintiff sued through Attorney T. C. Beatty.

Divorced From Criminal
On the ground that the defendant is confined by a penal institution, Gypsy Berry was granted a decree by Judge Will P. Stephenson Monday, divorcing her from David M. Berry, whom she married in Lawrence county, Kentucky, in 1909.

The plaintiff is a patient at Hempstead hospital and the court went out to the institution and heard her evidence.

Berry was sentenced to the penitentiary by Judge Thomas on Dec. 2, 1910, on his plea of guilty to a charge of manslaughter for the killing of a neighbor, named Powell, near Leesville.

Hears Arguments
Judge Will P. Stephenson, of West Union, who was here Monday attending to some court matters, returned home Tuesday morning.

While here the Adams county jurist heard arguments and took under advisement motions for new trials in the cases of The John H. McGowan Company against The Nicola Building Company and The Nicola Building Company against The City of Portsmouth, both of which grew out of the building at the city water works.

Case Continued
By agreement of the attorneys on both sides and the court, the trial of the case of The Robert Gray Construction Company against The Chesapeake & Ohio Northern Railway Company has been continued from Oct. 21 to Dec. 1, according to an announcement made Tuesday.

MAZOLA

Many cooks can't make a light cake rich or a rich cake light

Using too much shortening is the cause of most failures in baking.

Mazola gives richness and avoids sogginess.

Because you use 1/4 to 1/3 less of Mazola for shortening than butter, lard or compounds.

This means more than economy. It means a rich cake—yet a light cake—easily digested. Crisp, flaky pie crusts are likewise made with Mazola. Many an inexperienced housewife made her first successful pie crust when she tried Mazola.

Mazola is not an animal fat. It is a pure vegetable oil—from an edible source. It contains no moisture but is all fat—100%.

Once you try Mazola for making cakes and pie crusts you will never go back to butter, lard or compounds.

A CLEAN COOL SCALP

Parian Sage Stops Itching, Keeps the Scalp Cool—Prevents Dandruff

Almost everybody nowadays knows that Parian Sage, the most efficient scalp conditioner, is guaranteed to remove every trace of dandruff, stop itching, and keep the scalp cool, clean, and healthy. It is, in fact, the only scalp conditioner that will be returned to you if it does not make your hair feel cool and comfortable.

Everyone should have a bottle of Parian Sage handy because it is such a pleasant and exhilarating hair treatment. Ladies use it because it is dandruff, itching, and scalp trouble, and it is so simple to use. Here's what a New York woman writes: "I have used Parian Sage two weeks only, yet in that time my hair has wonderfully increased in beauty, thickness and luster. It has made my scalp so much more comfortable than when I was troubled with dandruff, itching, or at any other scalp trouble—its use is so simple."

program which should have for its purpose the assimilation of the nation's alien population and to aid immigrants in learning American habits, history and customs; more adequate care for the wounded American soldiers; granting of immediate citizenship to all who served the country; revision of the civil service regulations to make it easier for former service men to obtain public employment; decision upon a definite military or non-military policy; declaration of armistice day; November 11, as a national holiday; drastic action for those who have been proved slackers in the world war; opposition to the participation of legion men, as members of the organization, in labor disputes; planning of membership drives to raise the present membership and adoption of a "ritual" for initiation into the legion.

Missouri delegates have prepared a resolution suggesting that the Cleveland parade be regarded as a precedent to be maintained and if possible surpassed at all future conventions. The resolution urges each delegate to take with him to the convention city as guests as many legionnaires as possible and that each delegate, alternate and guests bring his uniform to insure a spectacular parade.

Today's convention program includes the presentation of General Marie Enloe Fayolle, personal representative of the French government, and Admiral Sir William Lowther Grant, Great Britain's representative. General Fayolle was to have reached here yesterday for the parade, but his steamship had been held up outside New York harbor by an unusually heavy fog.

With the withdrawal of Milton J. Foreman, of Chicago, and Emmett O'Neil, of Kentucky, from the race for the national commandership last night, only two formidable candidates were in the field when today's convention opened.

Following excuses it was said that New England delegations and several southern and Rocky Mountain states had definitely endorsed F. J. Galbraith, of Cincinnati.

The claim also is made that the southerners will throw their support to Hamilton MacNider, of Mason City, Iowa, carrying with them the western states. The MacNider forces claimed they would receive the support of at least 21 states, but reports of splits bringing new territory to the Galbraith ranks were frequently heard.

8 Players Indicted

Grand, while still the property of the Chicago club, has not been with the team this year. It was understood that he could not reach an agreement with them over salary.

Voting of the indictments was officially announced by H. H. Brigham, foreman of the grand jury, following a conference with Chief Justice McElroy and Alfred S. Austin, attorney for the White Sox club.

While the indictments at present contain but one count, "conspiracy to do an illegal act," Assistant State Attorney Stanley Reppel, in charge of the grand jury investigation, said more probably will be added after the grand jury session this afternoon.

Just before the indictments were announced a witness was ushered out a disused rear door of the grand jury room. He was reported to be Eddie Cicotte, the White Sox star pitcher.

Assistant State Attorney Reppel announced that Cicotte was taken in custody after leaving the grand jury room and is now in charge of William Sullivan, a detective, of the state's attorney's office. He declined to say where the pitcher was being taken.

Cicotte, who was named in the story of the alleged gamblers' plot, told at Philadelphia last night by Billy Maharg, former prize fighter, is said to have signed an immunity waiver and then to have gone before the grand jury and testified.

The sudden voting of the true bills followed.

President Heydler, of the National League, before going before the grand jury said the scandal in organized baseball was "the most deplorable thing that has ever happened in the history of the game." He added that he was glad the case was in the hands of a competent court and while it was a terrible thing he hoped that the guilty would be punished.

President Comiskey, of the White Sox, was so shaken up after sending the telegrams suspending seven of his star players that he was unable to make a statement.

Cicotte broke down and cried in the grand jury room, one of the jurors said, following the voting of the indictments. The juror quoted the pitcher as saying he wished he were "not mixed up in it."

At 3 o'clock the jury was preparing to resume its investigation, with a number of officials of both major leagues summoned to testify. There were rumors about the county court building that other players had confessed.

Joe Jackson, one of those indicted, and "Kid" Gleason, manager of the White Sox, called at the office of Mr. Austin, the club's attorney, this afternoon, and remained closeted with the lawyer for some time. They declined to divulge the nature of their errand.

As the afternoon session opened, the grand jury called President Heydler of the National League, and John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Nationals.

Following the conference in Austin's office, Mr. Austin appeared before Judge McDonald with Joe Jackson and requested a private conference, saying Jackson had an important statement to make.

After a short conference with Judge McDonald, Jackson was taken before the grand jury. As he went in the door he turned to newspaper men and said: "I am going to reform."

First Game In Brooklyn

The national commission ruled that the following members of the Brooklyn club were eligible to compete in the world's series:

Leon Cadore, Harold B. Elliott, Burleigh H. Grimes, Thomas H. Griffith, James H. Johnston, Peter J. Kilgus, Edward J. Konech, Ernest G. Koenig, William G. Lammie, William F. McCabe, Albert L. Mannix, Richard W. Marquand, John J. Mihos, Otto Miller, Clarence E. Mitchell, George B. Mohr, Harry H. Myers, Bernice Nels, Ivan M. Olson, Edward J. Pfeffer, Raymond Schmitt, Sherwood M. Smith, James W. Taylor, Charles W. Ward, Jack D. Wheat and Wilbur Robinson, manager.

The following Cleveland players were listed as eligible: James C. Bagby, George Burns, W. R. Clark, Ray B. Caldwell, Stanley Cosekole, G. R. Elison, Joseph Evans, W. L. Gardner, J. H. Graney, Charles D. Juncoson, W. R. Johnston, Harry Lunde, Walter Mals, Guy Morton, L. E. Nunnemaker, Steve P. O'Neil, Tris Speaker, Elmer J. Smith, C. D. Thomas, George Uhle, William Wambusch and Joe Wood.

The national commission selected William Hargrave, representing the American League, and Charles Evans, as representative of the National League to arrange for the series.

J. R. Taylor Spink, of St. Louis, and Joseph M. McCready, secretary of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, of Philadelphia, were chosen for two of the official scorers. The local chapters of the Baseball Writers' Association in the cities where the games are played will select the other two official scorers in the case of a dispute over plays the majority will rule.

Umpires selected to officiate at the series will not be announced until later in the day, but the commission granted the umpires plea for more pay for the series work.

Jim Dunn, president of the Cleveland club, telegraphed the Brooklyn club asking permission for Shortstop Sewell to play in the event the Indians win the American League race. Sewell succeeded the late Ray Chapman at short for the Indians and his contract was not promulgated before August 26, as required by the commission rules.

The national commission decided that the competing clubs in the world series shall appoint a committee on each club which committee shall decide how the prize money in the world series shall be distributed among the players. After this has been agreed upon, the list must be submitted to the commission and Secretary Bruce will mail individual checks to the players according to the list as submitted by the respective committees.

These provisions wound up the preliminary plans for the big series, and the commission adjourned. President Heydler of the National League, announced that he would depart for the east tonight.

A 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent, to show you how to end film. See below.

Never Sleep With a film-coat on your teeth

All statements approved by authorities

Millions of people on retiring now combat the film on teeth. They fight it day by day. And those glistening teeth seen everywhere now form one of the results.

You owe yourself a trial of this new teeth-cleaning method. Dentists everywhere advise it. The results it brings are all-important, and they do not come without it.

What film does

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. Feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. And dentists now trace most tooth troubles to it.

The ordinary tooth paste does not end film. So, despite all brushing, much film remains, to cause stain, tartar, germ troubles and decay.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Watch the teeth whiten

You will see and feel results from Pepsodent which brushing never brought you heretofore. A week's use, we think, will amaze you.

One ingredient is pepsin. One multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest all starch deposits that cling. One multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva to neutralize mouth acids.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily cling.

Watch these effects. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. Note how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

The book we send explains all these results. Judge what they mean to you and yours. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

Dear Miss Wise—I had two women who haven't sense enough to come in out of the rain arguing about Cox and Harding and the League of Nations. Which is for and which is against the league. What does the League of Nations mean anyway?

ONE OF THE MANY IGNORANT WOMEN.
Cox is for, and Harding against the League of Nations. Very few voters know anything about the League of Nations. Some of them know about it but they do not understand what it means. For the benefit of yourself and a great many others it might be interesting to know that one billion, two hundred millions of the world's population today have subscribed to the doctrine that the League of Nations is necessary and desirable to make future wars impossible. Less than half a billion are outside of the League of Nations.

Forty one countries are now members of the League. Eleven other countries have asked for membership and probably will be admitted. Fourteen nations are outside. Chief of these nations are the United States, Russia, too is outside. The Bolsheviks will not join, because the league will

BILLY WHISKER

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

The crow was a sorry looking sight when he came out of the bushes, but the other animals did not have much pity on him, for he was such a mischief and it was fun to see him caught at his own game, so they simply captured around and laughed at him. Bobby, who had just come out in time to see Billy plunge into the gooseberry bushes, also stopped to laugh, but when the crow flew to him he quit at once, and smoothing down the feathers, exclaimed: "Tawling carefully to see whether he had any serious hurts."

"Serves you right, old fellow," said he, holding the bird close up to his chest. "If you will behave in rough play, you may expect to get hurt now and then. Come here, buddy."

Dandy came running to him, and Bobby quickly hitched him up. Bobby was a busy boy and a thrifty one. He had bought an acre of ground just behind the barnyard an acre, a long time ago, and had paid for it out of the proceeds of the garden truck which he had raised on it. He soon eggs and chickens in the village and raised squab which he sent to the nearby city. Besides this he sometimes used Dandy and his wagon for light hauling, turning an honest penny everywhere he could. As Mr. Sanders ran the mill in the village and was doing very nicely in a business way, Bobby was free to keep all his money for himself and to do with it as he pleased for had long ago proved that he could be trusted with money. Today he had a little hauling to do and he drove Dandy out to the road with a cherry good-bye to his happy barnyard family.

Bobby left the barnyard gate slightly ajar and he had no more than gone when Billy, as full of curiosity as ever, managed to swing the gate and push it wide open, then he darted out followed by all the chickens, which immediately scattered to the flower beds and vegetable garden to scratch and eat the tender leaves.

Mrs. Sanders had just hung out her clothes. Nice white linen always had struck Billy as being a fine thing to cleave on. He liked it almost as well as boys and girls like chewing gum. Of course when he saw some hanging down for his special benefit. It was no more than polite for him to walk up and take a nibble.

Just as he reached up for it, however, Jimmy Tarwings swooped down on Billy's back to give him a scratch with his talons and a nip with his bill, and Billy, not expecting it, of course gave a jump and his head ran right through the neck of one of Mr. Sanders' undershirts, where it stuck. Of course Billy struggled to get away and of course Jimmy Tarwings, seeing that Billy was fastened, jumped on his back again and began to claw him with his sharp nails.

"Get up!" croaked Jimmy. "Ta ready for another ride now. Get up, goat!"

Billy ran backwards but the undershirt stuck on his horns and he could not get it off over his head. He ran forward and it stuck on his shoulders, and the fine sank still lower, so he had a better chance to struggle, which is what he did. Another clothes-prop came down and now a great many of the nice white clothes by dragging on the ground. Billy, galled on by the crow, gave another terrific lunge, and this time the line came loose at both ends and the whole string of clothes dragged on the ground after the galloping goat, while Jimmy Tarwings spread his wings and shrieked with joy. He was having the ride of his life.

(More of Billy's escapade tomorrow.)

Only 4% Is Fit to Mill Into Valier's Enterprise Flour!

Think of it! Of the whole hard winter wheat crop only one twenty-fifth is good enough to be milled into Valier's Enterprise Flour.

The rest is fine to look at, but it's weak. It lacks gluten. Rain and warm weather speeded up growth so much that it outgrew its strength.

The four per cent of the crop that is up to Enterprise standard grew only on the few spots where there wasn't so much moisture. It developed more slowly into thinner, harder grain, strong and full of gluten.

To search it out from the rest of the crop is no easy matter. But with no other wheat can we make flour that will give the same fine results that you have always had with Enterprise.

So we husked around and got it. Every bushel cost the highest premium we have ever paid, but its quality makes it well worth it.

As you'd expect, Enterprise costs slightly more than ordinary flour. But you can get better, more reliable bakings with it. And a sack will last noticeably longer.

The president, vice-president and secretary were re-elected. Other routine business was transacted by the congregation.

Foolish Fancy.

From a novel: "Fanny was intensely sympathetic; even the loneliest of the goldfish in the parlor saddened her." Sheer waste of sympathy, this. Would the little beggars be continually wagging their tails if they were unhappy? Certainly not. Far from pitying them, we envy them; they can make a trip around the globe whenever they feel like it.—Boston Transcript.

Kentuckian Is Assaulted By Two Men; Almost Bleeds To Death

Jeff Richardson, 28, unmarried, of Russell, Ky., back of Garrison on the Norfolk branch of the C. and O. is in a dangerous condition in Huntington hospital, the result of a stab wound in the left side and a serious injury on the head inflicted by a black jack. The wounds were inflicted by two men who set upon Richardson at the Ruggles station just as he was about to board the train with a suitcase for his sister who was on her way to Huntington. The young man could not receive medical attention from 2 o'clock until about 6:30 when he reached Hempstead hospital.

Richardson is at a loss to know why the two men assaulted him for he did not have any trouble with anyone in that section he claims.

He had been at the station sometime waiting for the train and when it arrived he helped his sister aboard and then went to get her suitcase on the station platform. Just as he was about to step aboard with the suitcase the two men attacked him one thrusting a knife in his side and the other hitting him on the head he says.

Members of the train crew placed him aboard the train and took him to Garrison where he had to wait for the C. and O. train east bound which arrived at South Portsmouth about 5:30. Ryan's ambulance met him there and then had to wait about an hour on account of the rain storm the storm keeping the ferry on this side of the river. The young man was growing steadily weaker from the loss of blood and when he reached the hospital he was very low. Several physicians were called and the flow of blood was stopped. The knife wound in the side was deep and the knife blade which had been thrown into the air, probably a disk, just missed penetrating the kidneys.

The man's sister Mrs. Ben Jones accompanied her brother to the hospital and remained with him throughout the night following her trip to Huntington this morning.

Steps Taken To Form Rotary Club Here

The Chillicothe Gazette of local interest regarding the new Rotary Club to be organized soon in Portsmouth, said yesterday:

The Chillicothe Rotary Club had for its distinguished guest at a luncheon, Monday, Harry E. Taylor, Oscar Menard, Ralph Thomas and Joe Horchow, committee on organization for the proposed Rotary Club soon to be installed at Portsmouth. A local committee of "Rotas" recently visited the River City and sowed the seeds for the organization of a club and quick action was taken by the live business men of that city, which resulted in the election of the above gentlemen to visit Chillicothe and learn first hand just what the Rotarians do at their conclaves.

And they found out that the noon-day luncheon affords an opportunity for business men to get together and discuss problems of municipal and public importance and benefit in a shirt-sleeve way, that is not bound by stiffness or formality.

They found a representation of every business and professional interest present and working in absolute harmony. Good humor prevailed everywhere; there was nothing of the social order, progressiveness permeated the atmosphere and the spirit of true helpfulness to others so that the community may prosper, seemed to be instilled in the vigorous bodies of all the members. Rotarians are the first of five virtues, the visitors found and they complimented the local "Rotas" for the manner in which they did things, and the big four appeared happy that they took a day off and came this way.

The Portsmouth club will be installed at some early date and the Chillicothe club will have the honor and the very great pleasure of doing the installing being experienced in the business by having started several clubs on the highway to success.

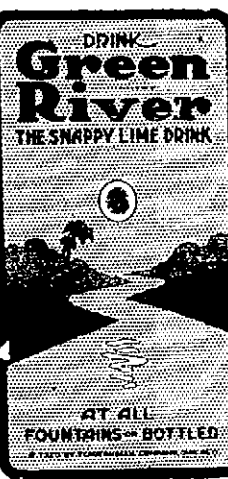

At a meeting last night the committee effected a preliminary organization. Under the rules of Rotary the permanent organization can be effected as soon as 25 members have been secured. After these twenty-five members have

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Sept. 28.—Following an alleged quarrel with her husband, Mary Warren, wife of Allen Warren, 3119 Fifth avenue, is believed by police to have committed suicide at 12:30 o'clock this morning. While frantically searching for his wife, Warren discovered a nightgown, believed to be hers, near the center of the Third avenue Guyandotte bridge with a note pinned to it. The note read:

"Burn my picture. This is the last of me, and God bless you. I would rather be in another world than be in this world and worry." Your wife, MARY.

Search by the husband, friends and police failed to locate her body this morning. After the supposed quarrel, Mrs. Warren took her clothes and went to the home of her mother, Mrs. Rhoda Adkins, who lives in Guyandotte. Mrs. Adkins said that her daughter went to bed for a short while, then arose and without removing her gown, put on a heavy coat and disappeared. The coat was not found. Inquiries at the homes of her friends failed to reveal her whereabouts. The banks of the river have been

Elders Ordered Into Court Following Rumpus At Church

As the result of trouble that followed on the heels of a congregational meeting at the Grandview Avenue Christian church, Monday evening, two of the elders of the flock, J. D. Carrington and David Davis were ordered to appear in municipal court Tuesday afternoon, to face disorderly charges preferred by the police.

The affidavit as prepared by the police in the Davis case and reads as follows: "This man had a fight with J. D. Carrington at the Grandview Avenue church; he also struck a woman by the name of Mrs. H. Steele, 1104 1/2 St. street."

The disturbance created all sorts of excitement in the vicinity of the church and a large crowd collected, drawn there by the screams of the women of the congregation. One man, whose name could not be learned, it is said, jumped through a window in the church building, carrying glass and such with him. It is said that Carrington's face was cut in the fight that was staged in the vestibule of the church, some of the members claim, however, that no blows were struck, contending that it was more of a shoving match.

It seems that trouble has been brewing in the congregation for some considerable time and that the church has been split into a Gast faction and an anti-Gast faction. Rev. O. H. Gast has been pastor of the church for the past several years and his official board has been divided upon his retention. It is said that the elders have repeatedly called upon him to resign, but he has succeeded in holding on due to quite a large number of his congregation.

Some few days ago the Gast faction began circulating a petition calling for the resignation or withdrawal of Elders James Tackett and W. W. Allen. This petition, which was signed by persons, was presented before the congregational meeting last evening, and, according to Chairman Bridwell, was acted upon favorably by a large majority. The petition was protested by the anti-Gast elders on the grounds that it contained the names of many who were no longer connected with the church, either from the standpoint of fellowship or contribution. As soon as the petition was declared the sense of the members present, it was voted that the clerk notify Elders Tackett and Allen that they were no longer members of the official board, whereupon some one made a motion that the pastor, Rev. Gast, be voted a three weeks' vacation. This motion also prevailed.

When the warring factions were called before Municipal Judge Small Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Gast stated that the report that some one had gone through a window was erroneous.

so far as he knew. Incidentally, he stated that a large majority of the membership was with him and that he had done all he could to keep trouble down. Elders Carrington and Davis were on hand to have their hearing on charges of disorderly conduct, but owing to the absence of Attorney Frank B. Kimball, who was busy with a case in common pleas court, the cases were referred for hearing on Thursday afternoon. During the course of the afternoon, Elders Carrington and Davis shook hands and both agreed to forget the past. The court room was crowded with people eager to hear the trial, and there was much disappointment expressed when the case was continued.

Concerning Whiskers.
"The effect of whiskers," said Jod Tunkins, "depends on who happens to be wearing them. On a regular man they look like whiskers, but on some people they look like summer furs."

Ben Franklin's Harmonica.

One of the first musical instruments made by an American was a mouth harmonica, made by Benjamin Franklin at the time he was minister at the court of Louis in France, where he played it with considerable skill before Marie Antoinette and her court ladies. The queen was so delighted and interested that Franklin presented the little instrument to her. After Marie Antoinette was beheaded in the great French revolution, his mouth harmonica had many sensational experiences till finally it came into the possession of a wealthy musical amateur and collector in this country—Musical America.

When Baby Swallows Air.
Babies often swallow air, which causes much discomfort. Dr. A. V. Hipp writes in the Therapeutische Monatshefte (Berlin). But they are not nearly so likely to do this if fed when lying prone, the head raised or turned on one side. Lying on the abdomen is often enough to break the habit. When this fails he has the baby lie on a flat hammock stretched from head to footboard of the crib and he says the steadiness and movements of the hammock, supplementing the prone position, divert the child's attention and make it forget to swallow air.

The "Fairy Rings" of the Field.
Green circles in pastures or meadows were once thought to be the scene of midnight revels of the fairies. But the rational and scientific explanation of the phenomenon is that the rings are caused by the growth of the subterranean mycelium or fungi, which radiate outward to find fresh soil or nourishment. The circles are bare because the mushroom has exhausted the fertility of the earth so that grass cannot grow, but as soon as the fungi begin to decay the ground becomes fertilized by the rich nitrogenous products of decomposition, and the grass grows greener than ever.

Blanche Sweet in "Simple Souls" a Splendid Production of John Hastings Turner's Novel—Is the Feature Attraction at the Lyric Tonight and Tomorrow.

The charm of Blanche Sweet's personality literally floods every scene of "Simple Souls," the Jesse D. Humphrey production which opens at the Lyric theatre today. It is based on the popular novel by John Hastings Turner.

Miss Sweet is cast in a role which requires a full complement of heart, brain and body. From the sweet simplicity of an unsophisticated girl, to the quick wrath and fear of a woman scorned, she is admirable. Don't miss this romance!

Briefly, the story is that of a poor, discouraged shop girl who dreams of happiness but sees no chance of getting it. Sitting disconsolate in a park, she arouses the sympathy of a Duke, who makes a chance acquaintance and later regularly sends her a small allowance to purchase books. This brings her into disrepute with her mother. The Duke learns of the situation and marries her, but snobbish relatives endeavor to break up the couple. The girl weathers a series of difficult situations and wins out.

Supporting Miss Sweet are Char. Meredith, Herbert Standing, Kate Lester, Herbert Grimwood, Aaron Edwards, Oliver Brubaker, Frederick Huntley and Mayne Kelso. Robert Thorneby gave this photoplay his usual splendid direction.

YOU'll never see their like again. Six marvelous reels taken on the island God forgot—where women slash and tear their bodies to make them beautiful, where men torture their faces out of all human resemblance, where children's playthings are human skulls. REALART PICTURES

"Sinners" A Big Story of Redemption. With Beautiful Alice Brady in the Title Role, Is Featuring the Program in at the Strand Theatre. Here's A Good One For Sure

One of the most entertaining photoplays in which Alice Brady, the Realart star has yet been seen, will be shown at the Strand Theatre tonight. It is titled "Sinners" and is based upon the stage play of the same name, written by Owen Davis, in which Miss Brady achieved one of her greatest dramatic successes. The picture presents a strongly emotional story—one that is rich in interesting contrasts. The day life of the city is set off against the dreary and wretchedness of country life and there are some devilishly tense situations depicted. Failing to find it she is befriended by a woman of questionable reputation.

The friends of this woman are the sinners of the play and the girl's association with them, when news of it reaches home, leads to false accusations and a very powerful dramatic situation.

Alice Brady is charming in this picture and will enjoy it.

Would you dare to say to a man, "Take me!" when you had no assurance in the world that he wanted you or would ever say "I love you"? It takes nerve to propose, when the answer is uncertain. His hand for a man to be refused? Oh, you say, a woman could refuse a proposing woman? Well, accept her just through sheer gallantry, whether he really wanted her or not. Oh, but would he?

Dr. Garth Vincent was not especially noted for his politeness to the fair sex. He seemed to take delight in teasing and tormenting women. Yet he started him by saying "Take me!" You will be startled, too, by the tense situations and action of "A Dark Lantern," coming to the Temple tonight. "Alice and the Social Lion" is the funny Alice comedy.

MAKE SUCH CRIMES IMPOSSIBLE

THE necessity of taking steps to make a repetition of the crime more difficult is no less important than the apprehension and conviction of the plotters, responsible for the explosion of the bomb near J. P. Morgan & Co.'s New York office, with appalling toll of life and destruction of property.

First there should be a careful scrutiny of the regulations dealing with the manufacture and transportation of explosives for the purpose of ascertaining if they contain loopholes that should be closed against anarchists and other criminals who desire to use them for nefarious purposes. Possession of T. N. T., with which the bomb was loaded, makes the possessor of such a potential, if not actual, menace to the safety of those in his vicinity that none should be allowed to have it except by government license. This would work no hardship for a vast majority of the people never have use for T. N. T., and those who have legitimate reasons for using it should not be allowed to get it in detail what they propose to do with it. If a record were available of all possessors of this dangerous substance, the task of tracing that used in the Wall street blast would be greatly simplified.

It was no mere coincidence that this explosion occurred on that particular and famous thoroughfare known as Wall street and that the greatest damage was wrought to the building of a banking firm of world-wide reputation. For many years "Wall street" has been held up by professional demagogues before impressionable minds as the center and fount of all evil. The easiest way to gain the applause, and often the votes, of the ignorant is to assail the "money devils" of "Wall street." The great financial establishments which have their headquarters in that district have been pilloried by street corner orators and by political stump speakers as the strongholds of special privilege and corruption, fortresses of money lords whose powers extend throughout the country to rob and oppress the people.

But terrible as has been the toll of this latest tragedy, the hearts of men are made only stronger by terrorism. Even had the explosive wiped out the entire firm of Morgan and leveled the sub-treasury to the curb, men would merely set about to build up again, grimly and more securely than before. A world unshaken before the hundred thousand beheading guillotines of Prussianism will not be frightened by the solitary act of a pervers.

It all goes to show that society is, after all, more primitive than we think, else it would be able to prevent such outrageous occurrences. And it shows, too, that society is more stable than we think, for, in the dark, it is unafraid.

A RETROSPECT

IT is remarkable how soon a healthy wound heals. The second winter's snow will soon be falling upon Chateau-Thierry, and the vines that clustered about the naked wooden crosses the first spring have fastened their roots firmly in the dust of the immortal sleepers. Two years ago how different it all was—the big guns, but we know all that. Today there is a peace on all the sacred hills of France that never was there before. The hills that are corrugated with black planks nailed at right angles are rocking themselves to slumber again as the autumn winds sweep over them.

A little old lady that lives down the street from almost anybody is going to the store as usual, buying her table's need, chatting with the neighbors about the amount of sugar she puts in watermelon preserve, or making a pair of pants for little Harold, aged eight, out of Jimmy's overcoat.

Sometimes she dusts off Jimmy's picture that hangs in the parlor, showing him in camp before he went across the sea. Everyone who sees the picture is afraid to speak to the little old lady about it, she is so happy about her little tasks which she performs so thoroughly and cheerfully.

As we said before, it is remarkable how soon a healthy wound heals. It seems as though the world is glad for the returning springtime and tries to forget the leaves that fell in the early storms of winter.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who stopped his newspaper and then waited to see the announcement that the publisher had failed?

Most persons would give up the thrills of being able to make music on the saxophone if they could learn to play on the horn of plenty.

Marrying for either love or money alone is somewhat risky, but marrying for love and money seems to have its advantages.

Presidential Campaigns

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 25.—These old letters the Democrats used against him with great effect. Horace Greely shouted himself black in the face in his attempts to defeat Scott from Scott's letters, but it was of no avail.

General Scott himself took the stump in an effort to win over the voters of foreign blood. He was a great chatterer, and his references to the "razed" and "league" and the "sweet German accent" of some of his listeners were nothing less than ludicrous. The Whigs soon realized that Scott would be defeated, but the candidate hoped on. When it was all over, he gave out an interview in which he declared that he owed his defeat to the New York Herald, the Webster defection and the lukewarmness of the Fillmore administration.

Daniel Webster consented to become the head of a Loyal Union ticket, but he died a few days before the election and his little party died with him. A few days before his death Webster wrote for his bosom friend, Peter Harvey, and asked: "Is Rufus Choate going to vote for Scott?" "I don't know," was Harvey's reply, "but I think not." Then Webster said: "Tell him not to vote for Scott, and his dying message to him, that after the second day of November next the Whig party is a natural party will exist only in history." The publication of this interview in the Democratic papers a few days before the election did not aid the Whig's dying cause, although Choate announced his faith to Scott.

Webster's prediction was correct. In 1852 the Whig party died and in the same year Henry Clay and Daniel Webster, its greatest leaders and its worst enemies, were gathered to their fathers. In the election the Whig ticket carried but four states—Massachusetts and Vermont in New England and Tennessee and Kentucky in the South.

The "Malineux"

In the Democratic party that year there was a great fight for the presidential nomination. Lewis Cass, James Buchanan, Stephen A. Douglas, and William L. Murray were the principals, but from the first it was believed that a "dark horse" would win. Sam Houston, then a Senator from Texas, who had been Governor of Tennessee and President of the Republic of Texas, was a formidable possibility for a while. But Houston had just become a "Malineux," that is to say, he had become a teetotaler and a prohibitionist, and was in favor of the extension of the Maine liquor law to all the states. Persons holding such views in those days were called "Malineuxes."

On the thirty-fifth ballot in the Democratic Convention the Virginia delegation pledged a solid vote for Franklin Pierce of New Hampshire, whose name had not been mentioned in the convention although the New York Herald had suggested him as the possible "dark horse." That started the ball, and Pierce was nominated on the forty-ninth ballot. Pierce had a good record as a politician, had served with some distinction as a Brigadier General in the war with Mexico, and had the negative strength of being a compromise man.

When Pierce was nominated the Democrats did not get how many mistakes General Scott would make or how many letters he would write. They only knew that the Whigs were certain to nominate him and that he was a war hero. It was in the frightened effort to get a hero to march a hero that Houston was proposed, and that Pierce was selected. Yet how Mexico and how the negative strength of being a compromise man.

The Pierce nomination was the first in which the outlook galleries in a national convention took part. When Pierce's name was first voted for, a New Hampshire delegate, with excitement, invited the people in the galleries to join in the cheering. They accepted the invitation, despite the precedent that had always obtained, forbidding the galleries to cheer or applaud. The result was the first convention "demonstration." It lasted for right minutes. Thus was begun the unhappy custom which has made a party the foreign element in politics.

Another Note Writer

General Scott had in years gone by affiliated with the Nativist party in Pennsylvania to the extent of writing letters attacking the Catholics and opposing the foreign element in politics.

The campaign of 1852 was affected to a considerable degree by two side-shows that were running—the prohibition movement and the woman suffrage propaganda. The latter held a great national convention which was attended by women from all over the northern states, most of them affiliated in "Mothers." Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony were two prominent figures. The prohibition movement did not enter into national politics, but it was a great factor in state and congressional contests.

When it was all over the country breathed easier. The Democrats had been restored to power by an overwhelming and sectional vote. People hoped and believed that the compromise of 1850 would stand, and that the agitation of the slavery question would die out. They were deceived, but their honest belief at the time explains many things that seem to be unreasonable in the light of later events.

Most Embarrassing

"I notice Miss Fowler closes her eyes when she reaches for a high note."

"So she does, but don't think there's any safety for you in that."

"What do you mean?"

"The last time she reached for a high note, and I stopped up my ears, she opened her eyes and caught me in the act."—Birmingham Age Herald.

He Knew

"I don't see why you call your place a bungalow," said Smith to his neighbor.

"Well, if it isn't a bungalow, what is it?" said the neighbor. "The job was a bungalow, and I still owe for it!"—Pearson's Weekly.

A Real Calamity

Speaking of ice cream, here's a story which isn't so bad. The stranger stood in the station platform waiting for the 6:23. The voice of a native reached him from the haven of a baggage master. "Yes," the native was saying to the baggage master, "Old Man Marsh certainly makes good stuff."

"Makes it right on the place, too." The stranger picked up his cane. "That's what I think," replied the baggage master. "Gives him of money too. All on account of prohibition, of course." "Sure," replied the native. "And only fifty cents a quart."

"Continued the baggage master, "I don't see how he does it." The 6:23 rolled in—and rolled out again without the stranger. "safest thing to play in."

Quandary

"What are you going to do with all that homemade creme de jazz you worked out with sugar and cornmeal and so forth?"

"That's the question!" said Uncle Bill Botticler. "What are we going to do with it? We can't drink it and it's too expensive to be thrown away."—Washington Star.

His Reason

"Weathering Jones," said the recorder. "What an old man for a baby. Why did you call him that?"

"Because the youngster kept me out of the draft," responded the proud father.—Boston Transcript.

The Color Scheme

"I am heartily in favor of deporting all the Reds," declared the man in the trolley car.

"All right," said his neighbor, looking in vain on his coat lapel for the discharge button, "and after we get through with them let's turn our attention to the Yellows."

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY O. O. MONTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The only sign of life in Chinatown from dawn to dusk is an occasional slithered and thurred figure hurrying in or out some dark alleyway. Chinatown sleeps through the long day—dusked and exhaled. A short time after the lights blaze in Chatham Square, the big lanterns in the balconies of the Chinese cafes are lighted. It is dusk.

Glimpses of light appear at the shuttered windows of the frame-dwellings. Most, Dwyer and Bell streets take on color and the fashion parlors prepare for the night of revelry. The Chinese clad printers take their places in the windows of the Chinese working daily.

There is an odor of fried fish and a motley murmur of Chinese voices. The languid mechanical pianos raise their dim—nearly every resident of Chinatown has a photograph or a mechanical piano. Soon as it begins to grow dark, the streets are filled. Hard faced women scarp in from the Bowery hunting for saloons.

The horrible cripples are wheeled and carried to their posts at the curb by their caretakers. At 8 the chimes

C. C.—That's good. I suppose they have laid duck-board all around the barracks?

T. K.—Yes, sir, and the mess hall, too.

C. C.—Have you put that floor in the kitchen?

T. K.—Yes, sir, the carpenters have just finished.

C. C.—Have all the men good bunks and ry straw?

T. K.—Yes, sir, the sergeant in charge of quarters reports that all the men are comfortable.

T. K.—It will be ready for use this afternoon.

C. C.—Well, sergeant, better tell the men to turn in early tonight. We will move at blue o'clock tomorrow morning. From "Overseas Castle" (113th Engineers).

Scientific Investigation

A small boy came hurriedly down the street, and halted breathlessly in front of a stranger going in the same direction.

"Have you lost half a crown?" he asked with his hand in his pocket.

"Yes, yes, I believe I have," said the stranger, feeling in his pockets.

"Have you found one?"

"Oh, no," said the small boy. "I just want to see how many have been lost today. Yours makes it fifty-four!"—London Tit-Bits.

LITHUANIAN ARTILLERY SHELLING POLE LINES

WARSAW, Sept. 28.—(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)—Polish cavalry operating in the rear of retreating Lithuanian forces in the region of Grodno have reached a point north of Lida, says an official statement issued here early today. During yesterday's fighting, the Poles captured 1500 prisoners, including a Lithuanian commissar, and also took eight cannons. Lithuanian artillery has shelled Polish positions in the Suwalki sector, the statement declares.

OPENING STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Recent irregular conditions in the stock market were unchanged at the onset of today's trading. This was especially noticeable in the railway group, where some of the more active western and southwestern issues eased 1 to 2 points while others of the same class averaged 1 point gains. The trend among industrials, particularly steel, motor equipments and leathers also was downward. Prices made variable recoveries within the first half hour on taring of Mexican oils.

PUT AMERICAN MERCHANT SHIPS IN ALL PORTS OF WORLD, HARDING PLAN

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 28.—A merchant marine policy insuring accessibility to all the markets of the world, linked with a protective tariff system to foster production at home were promised by Senator Harding last night in a speech at the Baltimore armory.

The Republican presidential nominee praised the merchant marine bill enacted at the last session of congress and assailed the Democratic administration for "unpreparedness for peace" in its policy toward American shipping and other factors of financial and industrial rehabilitation. With a new shipping act framed by Republicans now on the statute books, he said, a new Republican administration proposed to so administer it as to give the nation its proper place as a sea carrier.

Senator Harding also replied to charges that the Republican platform and policies are "reactionary" declaring it was true that his party wanted to "react from an era of executive usurpation and to reestablish orderly, constitutional government under 'forward looking, progressive policies'."

The nominee, accompanied by Mrs. Harding, arrived in Baltimore late in the afternoon on their special train and was greeted at the railway station by a howling crowd of several thousand who charged with his automobile in an effort to shake his hand. He was cheered by other thousands as he rode through the business section to his hotel, and later he spent an hour shaking hands at a public reception.

Every place in the armory, built to seat 20,000 was taken, and many were standing when Senator Harding arrived. At his appearance the audience got to its feet and cheered for two minutes and then renewed the ovation after the band had played the Star Spangled Banner. During his speech the nominee many times was interrupted with cheering and when he concluded he was met away with a great roar of applause.

Early in the address Senator Harding had his first experience of his campaign with heckling, when a man rose in the gallery and asked whether he had "scrapped" the League of Nations. The nominee's reply was an unadverted challenge to debate, the league with his interrogator and the crowd expressed its approval in another prolonged demonstration.

At the conclusion of his prepared address the nominee replied more at length to the heckler's question about the League of Nations.

"I might have answered him more extensively," said the senator. "He wanted to know whether I had promised to scrap the league. The one great failure to make the most of America's leadership in the world was due to the fact that one man attempted to speak, not only for America, but for the remainder of the world as well. I shouldn't do that."

JOHNSON AND HEYDLER TO TESTIFY IN THE BALL PROBE

CHICAGO, September 28.—Investigation of accusations that members of the Chicago White Sox had "thrown" the 1919 world series was resumed today by the Cook county grand jury with Presidents Johnson of the American League, and Heydler, of the National League expected to be the leading witnesses. Two other witnesses for today, according to announcement by Assistant Prosecutor Hartley, are Mrs. Henrietta D. Kelly and Dr. Raymond B. Prettyman.

Several of the White Sox players named at Mrs. Kelly's boarding house, and she will be questioned about conversations between them which she may have overheard.

Dr. Prettyman is dentist for the White Sox team and in a statement declared he could produce evidence of an attempt to persuade Weaver to "throw" games.

Manager Hughie Jennings, of Detroit, and President August Herrmann, of the Cincinnati Reds, will appear later in the week to testify. Replete with reports received by President Conkey of the White Sox that games had been "thrown." What he may have discovered has never been made public, but it developed during the previous sessions of the grand jury that the White Sox being like until next Friday, it is expected that members of the team may be called. "Kid" Gleason, manager, and Ray Schalk, star catcher, having been already summoned. Soon after the series last fall, Gleason, it is said, went to St. Louis to investigate reports received by President Conkey of the White Sox that games had been "thrown." What he may have discovered has never been made public, but it developed during the previous sessions of the grand jury that the White Sox being like until next Friday, it is expected that members of the team may be called. "Kid" Gleason, manager, and Ray Schalk, star catcher, having been already summoned.

COX SAYS HE IS FOSTERING PROGRESSIVE IDEAS GAINED UNDER BRYAN'S LEADERSHIP

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 28.—Governor Cox, Democratic presidential candidate, last night gave out a statement that he would have supported Wm. J. Bryan for the presidency had the former secretary of state been nominated, and added that he was fostering progressive ideas gained under Mr. Bryan's leadership.

The statement of Governor Cox was in response to an inquiry from a local newspaperman regarding the position in the campaign of Mr. Bryan, who has withheld support from Governor Cox.

"I have known Mr. Bryan politically and personally for many years," said the governor's statement. "He has been an influence for good. I supported him three times for the presidency with my newspapers, my voice and my vote, and would have done so again this year had he been the candidate of the Democratic party instead of myself. As a matter of fact, as a young man, I gained from Mr. Bryan's leadership many of the progressive ideas which I have endeavored to propagate."

Disparagement of "matters in the administration of Attorney-General Palmer and Postmaster-General Burleson," was expressed by Governor Cox in addressing a large audience at the auditorium where a strenuous Nebraska campaign was closed.

The Democratic presidential candidate said that although he believed the two cabinet officers had performed their duties "wholeheartedly," and were conscientious men, he did not endorse matters in both of their administrations. No specific affairs were stated by the governor.

Governor Cox replied to several questions published in a local newspaper, a repetition largely of past experiences of the candidate with western opposition press. In response to a question here as to whether he endorsed the Palmer and Burleson administration, the governor replied: "I served in congress with both of these gentlemen. I know them to be high-minded conscientious men and believe that their administrations were wholeheartedly performed. Yet, there are matters in both of their administrations which I do not endorse. Neither do I endorse the policy of up newspapers everywhere."

KANSAS CITY TO GET NEXT LEGION MEETING

CLEVELAND, O., September 28.—The formalities of the official opening and the parade over, the American Legion got down to real business of its second annual convention today. Twelve committees, established yesterday under orders from National Commander Franklin D. Oliver worked late into the night in order to have their reports ready.

The committee on time and place for the next national convention was prepared to recommend Kansas City as its choice of the next convention city. It selected October 31 to November 2, 1921, as the date so as not to interfere with the harvest season. Invitations also had been received from New York, Denver, San Francisco, Montgomery and New Orleans.

There was such a variety of resolutions before the resolutions committee that it was regarded as certain their report would be the last to be made public. More than 50 resolutions on all subjects had been given the committee to consider and report on or refer to such other committees as deemed advisable.

The committee on departmental divisions was prepared to recommend that the constitution be amended and six departments be created, five in the United States and one in Europe, and that instead of the five vice commanders elected at large as at present, a vice commander be placed over each of the six departments.

The central department under this plan would include Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

The resolution favoring immediate action by the United States senate on the four-fold compensation plan, received the approval of the committee on adjusted compensation, but minor amendments were advocated. Nearly 80 percent of the legion are strongly in favor of the resolution, it was said.

The house of representatives already has acted favorably on the plan.

The committee on soldiers' disability and insurance considered the advisability of placing the war risk bureau, public health service and federal board for vocational training under the supervision of a separate cabinet officer. The heads of these bureaus were present at the committee's session.

Other matters to come before the convention will be an Americanization program which should have for its purpose the assimilation of the nation's alien population and to aid immigrants in learning American ideals, history and customs; more adequate care for the wounded American soldiers; granting of immediate citizenship to all who

MacSwiney Has Better Night

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, passed a letter night last night, and was, in consequence a little more refreshed this morning, said a bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Determination League this forenoon. He was very weak and exhausted, however, and in some pain, the bulletin declared. This is the 47th day of the lord mayor's hunger strike. In his report to the home office, the physician at Brixton prison said: "He is slightly thinner, but otherwise there is no marked change from yesterday. The prisoner is unquestionably growing weaker daily."

Hen Hatched Alligator Egg Then Fled In Haste From Nest

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Sept. 28.—A hen owned by Dr. W. E. Willis of this city is suffering from something akin to nervous prostration, according to the physician. Dr. Willis found a nest filled with alligator eggs while on a hunting expedition recently. He brought six of the eggs home with him. A snake bit him in the doctors' backyard was determined to eat and although the sun would have hatched the alligator eggs, Dr. Willis decided to remove the nest and put the eggs under his care. He waited for but one egg to hatch, according to the doctor and then left the nest in a dead snail, eating wildly.

Cleveland Has Come Close To Winning Many Pennants

Not place that memorable and gripping campaign of 1906 has a Cleveland baseball team been as close to winning a pennant as the Indians are this year when it began to look as if the Fifth City would fly its first championship flag.

By half a game only was Cleveland beaten out by the Detroit Tigers in 1906. At that time the Naps would have won in easy winners if they had not lost the services of Outfielder Elmer Flick and Shortstop Terry Turner early in the year. Both these players were in their prime at that time and their loss to the team dealt a hard blow. As it was, Cleveland won the same number of games as Detroit, but lost the pennant.

The four western clubs battled for the pennant most of that campaign. The St. Louis Browns slipped early in September, leaving it a three-club race with Detroit leading the White Sox and Naps by a scant margin. Then Cleveland took the pole only to be ousted late in September by Washington which won two out of three games in a series with Cleveland. Then Chicago came to town to play two games. Cleveland won the opening tilt when Addie Joss, the elongated idol of the Cleveland fans at the time and long since dead, pitched his memorable no-hit, no-run, no-error first base game. Chicago copped the second and final game, Ed Walsh coming to the rescue at a critical moment and striking out Nap Lajoie with the bases choked.

That night, Cleveland left for St. Louis to play three games. If the team won all three, the pennant was cinched. The opening game was played on Sunday. In the eighth inning, Bill Hutchinson hit what appeared to be a safe hit over second, scoring two runs and putting Cleveland in the lead. Shortstop Bobby Wallace, of the Browns, scooped over back of second, scooped up the ball with one hand, looped it to first base. Tom Jones, then playing first for St. Louis, was pulled off the base to take the throw but Empire Egan called the batter out nevertheless. Had Hutchinson not landed on getting down to first, thinking it a sure hit, the decision would not have been close.

The game went into extra innings and Manager Lajoie was forced to call upon Addie Joss to finish it. The game was finally called a draw because of darkness. The next day, St. Louis won. Bill Dineen pitching a great game and holding the Naps in check while the Browns scored a few runs off the tired Cleveland hurlers.

Cleveland started off in first place in 1900, slipped to sixth place and then dropped to sixth place where it finished the season. Nap Lajoie then resigning as manager. In 1910 it dropped from first to fifth, moved up to second place and then proceeded to run fifth for the remainder of the year under the management of Jim McGuire.

Fourth place was Cleveland's best since most of the 1911 campaign, but under the management of George S. Allen it came with a rush at the finish and was third when the bell rang, being headed only by Philadelphia and Detroit.

With Harry Davis at the helm in 1912, the Naps never did hit a winning stride until after Davis' departure and Joe Birmingham assumed the management. It finished with an average of .430 in fifth place.

The season of '13 found the Naps runners-up to Athletics all year and with a splendid chance to win the pennant when they went east in September. The pitchers then had an attack of buck fever or something, and when the team lost five games in a row at Washington, it parted company with its chance to knock the Athletics out of the championship. In fact, it even handed second place over to

State Is Rounding Up A Formidable Eleven

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 28.—Cleveland, with half a dozen candidates, apparently has displaced Columbus as the main source of Ohio State football men.

For the first time in its history, the Buckeye Capital's products are outnumbered. As in other years, however, with three or four exceptions, the 1920 Ohio State eleven will be composed of Ohioans.

Forest City pickup toters are G. N. Johnson, John Taylor, who, while he trails from Duluth, played on the Cleveland Naval Reserve eleven, Dolg, Speed, Albi, Gibson, Farnsworth and Otterbacher. Columbus men number six.

Washington. The campaigns of 1914 and '15 were lean years for Cleveland as the club went completely to the bat, finishing eighth in '14, and seventh the following season.

Then Jim Dams took the club in hand when Clevelanders declined it with thanks. It got away in front and might have won the pennant had not Morton Hurt his arm after winning nine out of eleven and Chapman and Klepper sustained injuries that kept them out of the game for a long period. It finished sixth with a percentage of .500.

The tribe finished third in 1917 with a mark of .571, Chicago winning with .640. Boston being second with .552. Boston won the pennant in 1918 with Cleveland just 2 1/2 games behind when the season was abruptly terminated on September 1. Boston's percentage was .535 and Cleveland's .515. Last year Cleveland was the runner-up to Chicago which led the greater part of the season, the championship not being settled until a few days before the campaign ended.

Johnson, Taylor and possibly one or two of the others, have excellent chances to win permanent berths.

"You've got to lose your feet and dive ten yards after a man if you want a place on this team."

That's the injunction handed Ohio State and candidates last week by Head Coach Jack Wilson.

He's trying to develop a pair of flankers who will rank at least on a par with any others in the Big Ten. "Truck" Myers, Butrus; C. N. Workman, Huntington, W. Va.; Albi, Cleveland and Syker, Huron, look like his best bets.

There'll be no outstanding features of Eastern or far-Western football play included in Ohio State's gridiron repertoire this fall.

After seeing Harvard and Oregon tangle on the Pacific Coast last winter and the Army-Navy melee in the East shortly before, Dr. J. W. Wilson, Buckeye mentor, says he's very well satisfied with the style of play in use.

Western Conference football, he opines, gives ample opportunity for employment of the older, more conservative style of game and the more recent open variety.

TWO MORE FOR RUTH

Babe Ruth added two more home runs to his total Monday in the game with the Philadelphia Athletics, making his total for the season 31.

The first one came at his first time at bat while the second one came at the opening of the sixth inning.

Up to the sixth inning of Monday's game, Ruth's last three home runs had come in the first inning.

Selby Bowling League

The Ink Slingers, explained by Frank Flowers, after losing three games last week, came back to life last night and soundly thrashed the Tuckers two games out of three, much to the surprise of Capt. Marple, who had it all doped out that his team would take all three games. Capt. Marple was high for his team, while Basil Davidson led for the Ink Slingers. Tonight, at 7:30, the Leather Grip team meet the Olive Tree.

CUBAN ANNIUS TO MEET JACK DEMPSKY

Some of the Cuban sportsmen, after trying to arrange a championship bout between Jack Dempsey, world heavyweight champion, and John S. Miller, the so-called Spanish heavyweight champion, called Jack Williams, Dempsey's manager, recently appearing in the city of Havana, and offering him a $50,000 prize for a fight with Dempsey. He also stated that he is preparing to leave Havana to come to New York for a conference, which, if satisfactory, would lead to the depositing the full amount of the guarantee in a bank in New York.

This guarantee would be deposited that Dempsey would collect it in each of his fights after the bout was over.

Your expenses will be paid by me, the champion, continued "Money paid in New York back to me in cash in each twenty-four hours after fight. Fight to be held in Havana on second Sunday in January. An offering for New York area."

TIGERS ARE DEFEATED

CHICAGO, September 28.—With "Little Dick" Kerr pitching masterly ball, the Chicago White Sox continued their victorious march in the American League pennant race, defeating Detroit 2 to 0 Monday in the final game of the season here. The victory was Chicago's tenth in the last eleven games.

Kerr pitched a remarkable game, not allowing a man to reach third base, and was never in danger. Duss also pitched splendid ball, allowing only one hit up to the sixth inning. After hitting Weaver in the sixth, however, Eddie Collins and Joe Jackson knocked out long singles which, coupled with a poor return by Cobb, gave Chicago's only run. The score:

CLEVELAND AND SOX WIN AGAIN

Southpaw Walter Mele bids fair to lead the American League pitchers if he keeps up his present gait for the two or three remaining weeks of the campaign.

Monday Mails pitched the Indians to an 8-4 victory over the St. Louis

Browns, thus keeping the Cleveland team to the fore in the race, Chicago also defeating Detroit by a score of 3-0.

Speaker's men garnered eleven hits as against ten for the St. Louis team, while three hits counted heavily against the Browns. In an effort to maintain the lead of half a game now held by his men, Manager Tris Speaker will probably send Bagby, credited with 29 victories, to the mound, while Lefty Hayne will probably be on the mound for St. Louis.

Today is "Bleat Day" and the St. Louis fans will demonstrate their appreciation of the work of the leading American League hitter by presenting him with a silver service.

Brooklyn Cinches Pennant

The Brooklyn team clinched the pennant in the National League Monday, when the host the Giants could do was to have a double bill with the Dodgers.

All hail the Superbas, the new champions of the National League. Most fans picked the Reds or Giants to win.

but this did not prevent Brooklyn from playing away well it had won enough games to clinch the grand old flag.

Now if Cleveland will turn this trick the fans here will be happy. About 5 percent of them are pulling for the Indians to come through.

MUTUALS DEFEATED ROYALS IN MASONIC BOWLING LEAGUE

The opening gun in the Masonic Bowling League for 1920-21 was fired at the Play House alleys last night, when the Mutuals, named in honor of Captain George Patton took two out of three from the Royals, a name given them out of admiration held for Captain William Hazelbeck. The games were evenly contested and desperately fought, the players coming out of the frays as well as though they had been dumped into the little Scotch to. Considering the fact that the players had had little or no practice, some did remarkably well. Captain Patton of the Mutuals was high man of the evening, getting a total of 487.

Two of his games were very good, while the sandwich was rather uneventful. Captain George showed, however, that he was going to be there with feet, arms and legs this year and expects to stage a come back that will wipe everyone off the boards so far as the individual championship is concerned. Earl Reinhardt was a bear for his team and shooting an anchor man dropped off a total of 479 pins. He was proving a little weak as the games were clipped off, and hot as a fritter when the last frame was reached. Salem Shaw of the Royals was in single pie order and came within one pin of averaging 150. The weather was too hot for E. A. Eymon, but he is not at all ashamed of his effort, averaging 141. Frank Webb got across the 400 line by a close shave, but not so close as the escape of Dr. Frank Colburn. These two teams are evenly matched as will be seen from the scores. The enthusiasm was very marked, both from players and spectators. The scores:

MASONIC BOWLING LEAGUE	Royals	Mutuals
Stratton, 1st	104	114
Hazelbeck, 2nd	103	117
Keyes, 3rd	112	109

Babe Ruth Has No Favorite Park In Hitting Homers

Of "Babe" Ruth's 33 home runs, twenty-seven have been hit at the Polo Grounds and twenty-six have been cashed on the road. The King of the Mace has now hit at least a homer or more in every park in the American League this year. This is the second successive year that Ruth has turned, son has been able to put a ball; five of the terrible infant's circuit smashes have found a resting place in the right field bleachers, where only Dave Robertson has been strong enough to place the pill.

Coach Little has been giving his men moderate work in all branches of the game, but only last night's scrimmage have been held thus far. Real, scrimmages will come the last of the week. Miami's line will not be as heavy this season as in previous years, but there promises to be more speed.

Ohio University football prospects at Ohio University are the brightest in years, according to Coach Russell Elbertson. There are 40 eligible men, almost every one of them former high school stars, and to date 31 freshmen have reported, all of them men above the ordinary.

To form the nucleus of the squad, there are 12 letter men left from the 1919 team. Columbus squads have contributed to the eligible squad in Curt Wolfe, formerly of North, and Peg Fuller formerly of East.

Lockhart, a colored Athens High School graduate, looks good for the backfield, and will probably have a running mate. Fibre, who got his experience in the W. and J. backfield two years ago, when he played all season. Finsterwald has for assistants "Butch" Grover, graduate manager, Phil Zenger, former Yale varsity guard, and Bob Wood and Hickey Palmer, old Ohio backfield men.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Major league umpires have petitioned for increased pay for world series work. President John Hyatt, of the National League said tonight. The umpires want to work in the annual series on a percentage basis, just as the players do, and their request probably will be acted on at tomorrow's meeting of the National Commission, he said.

MAKE SUCH CRIMES IMPOSSIBLE

THE necessity of taking steps to make a repetition of the crime more difficult is no less important than the apprehension and conviction of the plotters responsible for the explosion of the bomb near J. P. Morgan & Co.'s New York office, with appalling toll of life and destruction of property.

First there should be a careful scrutiny of the regulations dealing with the manufacture and transportation of explosives for the purpose of ascertaining if they contain loopholes that should be closed against anarchists and other criminals who desire to use them for nefarious purposes. Possession of T. N. T. with which the bomb was loaded, makes the possessor of such a potential, if not actual, menace to the safety of those in his vicinity that none should be allowed to have it except by government license. This would work no hardship for a vast majority of the people never have use for T. N. T., and those who have legitimate reasons for using it should not object to setting forth in detail what they propose to do with it. If a record were available of all possessors of this dangerous substance, the task of tracing that used in the Wall street blast would be greatly simplified.

It was no mere coincidence that this explosion occurred on that particular and famous thoroughfare known as Wall street and that the greatest damage was wrought to the building of a banking firm of world-wide reputation. For many years "Wall street" has been held up by professional demagogues before impressionable minds as the center and fount of all evil. The easiest way to gain the applause, and often the votes, of the ignorant is to assail the "money devils" of "Wall street." The great financial establishments which have their headquarters in that district have been pilloried by street corner orators and by political stump speakers as the strongholds of special privilege and corruption, fortresses of money lords whose powers extend throughout the country to rob and oppress the people.

But terrible as has been the toll of this latest tragedy, the hearts of men are made only stronger by terrorism. Even had the explosive wiped out the entire firm of Morgan and leveled the sub-treasury to the curb, men would merely set about to build up again, grimly and more securely than before. A world unshaken before the hundred thousand beheading guns of Prussianism will not be frightened by the solitary act of a pervers.

It all goes to show that society is, after all, more primitive than we think, else it would be able to prevent such outrageous occurrences. And it shows, too, that society is more stable than we think, for, in the dark, it is unafraid.

A RETROSPECT

It is remarkable how soon a healthy wound heals. The second winter's snow will soon be falling upon Chateau-Thierry, and the vines that clustered about the naked wooden crosses the first spring have fastened their roots firmly in the dust of the immortal sleepers. Two years ago how different it all was—the big guns, but we know all that. Today there is a peace on all the sacred hills of France that never was there before. The hills that are corrugated with bleak planks nailed at right angles are rocking themselves to slumber again as the autumn winds sweep over them.

A little old lady that lives down the street from almost anybody is going to the store as usual, buying her table's need, chatting with the neighbors about the amount of sugar she puts in watermelon preserve, or making a pair of pants for little Harold, aged eight, out of Jimmy's overcoat.

Sometimes she dusts off Jimmy's picture that hangs in the parlor, showing him in camp before he went across the sea. Everyone who sees the picture is afraid to speak to the little old lady about it, she is so happy about her little tasks which she performs so thoroughly and cheerfully.

As we said before, it is remarkable how soon a healthy wound heals. It seems as though the world is glad for the returning springtime and tries to forget the leaves that fell in the early storms of winter.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who stopped his newspaper and then waited to see the announcement that the publisher had failed?

Most persons would give up the thrills of being able to make music on the saxophone if they could learn to play on the horn of plenty.

Marrying for either love or money alone is somewhat risky, but marrying for love and money seems to have its advantages.

Presidential Campaigns

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 25.—These old letters the Democrats used against him with great effect. Horace Greeley should himself black in the face in his attempts to defend Scott from Scott's letters, but it was of no avail.

General Scott himself took the stump in an effort to win over the voice of foreign blood. He was a great flatterer, and his references to the "rich Irish brogue" and the "sweet German accent" of some of his hearers were nothing less than ludicrous. The Whigs soon realized that Scott would be defeated, but the candidate hoped on the issue of all or nothing. He declared that he owed his defeat to the New York Herald, the Webster defection and the lukewarmness of the Fillmore administration.

Daniel Webster consented to become the head of a bolting Union ticket, and he fled a few days before the election and his little party died with him. A few days before the election Webster sent for his bosom friend, Peter Harvey, and asked: "Is Rufus Choate going to vote for Scott?" "I don't know," was Harvey's reply, "but I think not." Then Webster said: "Tell him not to ruin his future by voting for Scott, and tell him, as my dying message to him, that after the second day of November next the Whig party as a national party will exist only in history." The publication of this in the Democratic papers a few days before the election did not aid the Whigs' dying cause, although Choate announced his fealty to Scott. Webster's prediction was correct. In 1852 the Whig party died and in the same year Henry Clay and Daniel Webster, his greatest leaders and their worst enemies, were gathered to their rest.

One More Compromise
 It was Henry Clay, the Great Pacificator, whose compromise had kept him out of the White House, who was once more called to the front in his old age to bring about peace.

The Compromise of 1850 was arranged. It included several measures. The most important was the admission of California as a free state, as that broke the balance of power between Free and Slave states in the United States Senate. It was the one concession to the North, but it was of far greater importance than the South realized. To the other side the concessions were a stringent Fugitive Slave Law, the maintenance of slavery in the District of Columbia, the payment to Texas of $10,000,000 for settling its claim to New Mexico, and the organization of Utah and New Mexico as territories without restrictions as to slavery. By this compromise, Henry Clay united the warring elements of the Democratic party and destroyed for all time the party which he organized and had captained for so many years.

President Fillmore was a candidate for the nomination. General Scott and Mr. Webster were the other aspirants. Mr. Fillmore had urged the compromise through Congress and had approved it. He wished the whole country to accept it as the final disposition of the whole slavery question. The country, for the most part, wished to accept it. The Democratic Convention approved. The Whigs had to do so. To swallow the Fillmore compromise the northern Whigs were forced, but they would not swallow Fillmore. So they took Scott, whose sympathies were believed to be with the anti-slavery wing of the party.

General Scott was nominated on the fifty-third ballot in the convention, after heated sessions in which a division would now and then arise to spring a letter from Scott. When the nomination was made, Senator James of Tennessee, the "Levee Jimmy" Jones who had twice defeated James K. Polk for governor, leaped to the platform with a letter from General Scott. It was a letter of acceptance couched in less than a hundred words, but pleading moral and exclusive support to the platform. That all too sudden letter helped to do his business in November.

Another Note Writer
 General Scott had in years gone by affiliated with the Nativist party in Pennsylvania to the extent of writing letters attacking the Catholics and opposing the foreign element in politics.

convention place.
 The campaign of 1852 was affected to a considerable degree by two additional factors that were running—the prohibition movement and the woman suffrage propaganda. The suffragists held a great national convention which was attended by women from all over the northern states, most of them living in "blue rooms." Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony were two prominent figures. The prohibition movement did not enter into national politics, but it was a great factor in state and congressional contests.

When it was all over the country breathed easier. The Democrats had been restored to power by an overwhelming and non-partisan vote. People hoped and believed that the compromise of 1850 would stand, and that the agitation of the slavery question would die out. They were deluded, but their hopes were based on the false explanation of many things that seem to be unreasonable in the light of later events.

Richardson Is Assaulted By Two Men; Almost Bleeds To Death

Elders Ordered Into Court Following Rumpus At Church

As the result of trouble that followed on the heels of a congregational meeting at the Grandview Avenue Christian church, Monday evening, two of the elders of the flock, J. D. Carrington and David Davis were ordered to appear in municipal court Tuesday afternoon, to face disorderly charges preferred by the police.

The affidavit, as prepared by the police in the Davis case and reads as follows: "This man had a fight with J. D. Carrington at the Grandview Avenue church; he also struck a woman by the name of Mrs. B. Steele, 1104 Clay street."

The disturbance created all sorts of excitement in the vicinity of the church and a large crowd collected, drawn there by the screams of the women of the congregation. One man, whose name could not be learned, it is said, jumped through a window in the church building, carrying glass and sash with him. It is said that Carrington's face was cut in the fight that was staged in the vestibule of the church. Some of the members claim, however, that no blows were struck, contending that it was more of a shoving match. It seems that trouble has been brewing in the congregation for some considerable time and that the church has been split into a Galt faction and an anti-Galt faction. Rev. O. H. Galt has been pastor of the church for the past several years and his official board has been divided upon his retention. It is said that the elders have repeatedly called upon him to resign, but he has succeeded in holding on due to quite a large number of his congregation.

At last night's meeting the question of the pastor's status was to be finally fixed. The Galt faction had circulated a petition, which it is claimed, contained the names of 14 members who insisted upon his retention. This petition was protested by the six anti-Galt elders, and the meeting, it is claimed, broke up without any definite action being taken.

There was no trouble inside the church, although some heated arguments were indulged in. When the vestibule was reached, Elder Davis is reported to have said something derogatory concerning the Galt faction, and the challenge was taken up by Elder Carrington. Then the row started. The anti-Galt elders claim they will not fight the charges preferred against Elder Davis, which may prevent an airing of the trouble when the two elders face Municipal Judge Smith this afternoon.

Jeff Richardson, 28, unmarried, of Russell, Ky., lack of Garrison on the Kinnickinnick branch of the U. and O. is in a dangerous condition in Hempstead hospital the result of a stab wound in the left side and a serious injury on the head inflicted by a black jack. The wounds were inflicted by two men who set upon Richardson at the Russell station just as he was about to board the train with a suitcase for his sister who was on her way to Huntington. The young man came near bleeding to death, his wounds not receiving medical attention from two o'clock until about 6:30 when he reached Hempstead hospital.

Richardson is at a loss to know why the two men assaulted him for he did not have any trouble with anyone in that section he claims. He had been at the station sometime waiting for the train and when it arrived he helped his sister aboard and then went to get her suitcase on the station platform. Just as he was about to step aboard with the suitcase the two men attacked him one thrusting a knife in his side and the other hitting him on the head he says. Members of the train crew placed him aboard the train and took him to Garrison where he had to wait for the U. and O. train east bound which arrived at South Portsmouth about 5:30. Local ambulance men met him there and then had to wait about an hour on account of the rain storm the storm keeping the ferry on this side of the river. The young man was growing steadily weaker from the loss of blood and when he reached the hospital he was very low. Several physicians were called and the flow of blood was stopped. The knife wound in the side was deep and the knife blade which must have been unusually long probably a dirk, just missed penetrating the kidneys.

The man's sister Mrs. Ree Jones accompanied her brother in the hospital and remained with him throughout the night continuing her trip to Huntington this morning.

GRAND JURY MAY TAKE UP THE "SUNDAY MOVIE" CASE

From all indications the Grand Jury recalled into session this morning at 10 o'clock by the court will take up an investigation of the Sunday movie picture business. A list of witnesses was handed to Prosecutor George W. Sheppard with a request that they be called and heard and, judging from the names it means that the movie cases will be taken up by the jury.

The jury was excused last Thursday subject to call. Cases expected to be investigated included forgery charge against Raymond Keener who has been in jail since last May and the charge of larceny against Lord Evans who was arrested several days ago by Sheriff E. E. Rickey in Itasca county and returned to this city.

Evans it thought to be the man who stole harness from a West Side farmer months ago. Keener's case was lost in the shuffle last week when the jury was in session.

Woman Is Missing

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Sept. 28.—Following an alleged quarrel with her husband, Mary Warren, wife of Allen Warren, 3119 Fifth avenue, is believed by police to have committed suicide at 12:30 o'clock this morning. While frantically searching for his wife, Warren discovered a nightgown, believed to be hers, near the center of the Third avenue Guyanotte bridge with a note pinned to it. The note read:

"Burn my picture. This is the last of me, and God bless you. I would rather be in another world than be in this world and worry." Your wife, MARY.

Search by the husband, friends and police failed to locate her body this morning. After the supposed quarrel, Mrs. Warren took her clothes and went to the home of her mother, Mrs. Ethel Adkins, who lives in Guyanotte. Mrs. Adkins said that her daughter went to bed for a short while, then arose and without removing her gown, put on a heavy coat and disappeared.

The coat was not found. Inquiries at the homes of her friends failed to reveal her whereabouts. The banks of the river have been thoroughly examined by the police, who believe she jumped from the bridge.

served the country; revision of the civil service regulations to make it easier for former service men to obtain public employment; decision upon a definite military or non-military policy; declaration of armistice day, November 11, as a national holiday; drastic action for those who have proved slackers in the world war; opposition to the participation of legionnaires in the organization; in favor of the planning of membership drives to raise the present membership and adoption of a "ritual" for initiation into the legion.

Miscellaneous delegates have prepared a resolution suggesting that the Cleveland parade be regarded as a precedent to be maintained and if possible surpassed at all future conventions. The resolution urges each delegate to take with him to the convention city as many as many legions as possible and that each delegate, alternate and guests bring his uniform to insure a spectacular parade.

Today's convention program includes the presentation of General Marie Baile Parole, personal representative of the French government, and Admiral Sir William Lowther Grant, Great Britain's representative. General Fayolle was to have reached here yesterday for the parade, but his steamship had been held up outside New York harbor by an unusually heavy fog.

With the withdrawal of Milton J. Foreman of Chicago, and Emmett O'Sell of Kentucky, from the race for the national leadership last night, only two formidable candidates were in the field when today's convention opened.

Following caucuses it was said that New England delegations and several southern and Rocky Mountain states had definitely endorsed E. J. Gallbraith of Cincinnati.

The claim also is made that the southerners will throw their support to Hamilton MacNider of Mason City, Iowa, carrying with them the western states. The MacNider forces claimed they would receive the support of at least 25 states, but reports of splits bringing new territory to the Gallbraith ranks were frequently heard.

A special train over the C. & O. will arrive at South Portsmouth at ten o'clock Wednesday morning, headed for Ashland. It will stop at South Manchester and intermediate points.

Steps Taken To Form Rotary Club Here

MASSACHUSETTS TURNS DOWN FIGHT

The Massachusetts state boxing commission has refused to permit promoters to stage in that state the proposed Dempsey-Brennan battle. The bout was scheduled originally for New York and postponed indefinitely. The Massachusetts officials said they would permit Dempsey to fight only "the local contender."

It's a slap at Brennan, but it shows that there is at least one state boxing body that isn't going to allow prominent fighters to make fortunes without effort—without giving the public its money's worth.

Republicans Of Lewis Co. To Have Special Train On C. & O.

Moon The Brightest Satellite.

From an interesting summary of knowledge concerning the satellites of the solar system by Dr. S. B. Nicholson we learn several facts which are perhaps unfamiliar to many students of astronomy. The writer points out, for example, that on account of our nearness to the sun, the moon is by far the brightest satellite as seen from the surface of its primary.

Plant Growth.

It is said that the length of the day rather than the temperature affects the growth of plants. Its given 15 hours of light every day bloomed two months earlier than similar plants which experienced only the day of natural length. This was proved to some government experiments.

At a meeting last night the monthly meeting of the Rotary Club was held.

Under the rubric of Rotary the present organization can be placed as soon as 25 members have been secured. After these twenty-five members have been secured, officers may be elected and more members admitted.
